III. PROGRAM INFORMATION

■ A. CONNECTICUT PROJECT LONGEVITY HOUSING PROGRAM OVERVIEW

1. Program Description

1. Program Description

Project Longevity is an anti-gun violence program operating in the four cities mentioned above. There are core staff in each of the five cities, including a social services coordinator. Project Longevity staff in each city work with the police department, probation, parole, corrections, municipal, and community organizations in each city to identify those individuals who are the highest risk of either committing or being victims of gun violence, and offer to connect them with an array of services that can help them move away from those risks. These services may include short term basic needs, emergency housing, mental or physical health services, substance use disorder services, driver's licenses, job readiness training, occupational skills training, or other services as needed. While Project Longevity has resources to fund some of these services directly, the program also leverages resources already available in the community.

CT Project Longevity Housing Program provides housing placement and stabilization services, as necessary, to assist clients and households who may be experiencing homelessness, living in a shelter, temporary transitional housing programs, behavioral health treatment, or unstable housing, homeless in shelters or in places not meant for human habitation to move as quickly as possible out of homelessness and into permanent housing. Program participants will receive time-limited housing supports and strategies with the ultimate goal of housing stability. For the purposes of this proposal, participants will be individuals currently associated with Project Longevity and who may be homeless, living in a shelter, temporary transitional housing program, behavioral health treatment, or unstably housed. Referrals will be received from Project Longevity staff. The length of the program will be approximately 12 months but can be extended with approval. For some individuals, a rapid exit approach, where only security and the first and second month's rent is provided, will be employed. The Center and JBCSSD anticipates that the caseload size for any case manager would be 25 households at any given time. Project Longevity staff will make the final determination as to whether a participation will receive housing services. This is irrespective of their current housing status (e.g, homeless or at-risk of homelessness).

CT Project Longevity Housing- Program will employ interconnected strategies to ensure programmatic effectiveness. These strategies are as follows:

- a. Collaborating with Project Longevity staff in reviewing referrals
- b. Collaborating with Project Longevity staff in conducting intake, screening, a housing-based assessment, as well as provision of an array of housing services (e.g, rapid exit).
- c. Housing search, landlord recruitment, and relocation assistance;

- d. Critical Time Intervention (CTI) and housing stabilization and sustainability supports, including linkages to community services; and
- e. Access existing financial assistance through DOH's Rapid Re-housing Financial Assistance Fund administered by Advancing Connecticut Together (ACT).

The respondent's proposed CT Project Longevity Housing Program must be led by a qualified organization, which will act as respondent and contractor, and which will assume primary responsibility for the success of the program.

2. Program Purpose

The CT Project Longevity Housing Program uses a combination of housing find and placement and stabilization services, including case management and support services combined with financial assistance, if necessary, to help housing unstable program participants to move as quickly as possible into permanent housing and achieve housing stability.

3. Eligible Program Participants

Eligible participants may be homeless, living in a shelter, temporary transitional housing programs, behavioral health treatment, or unstable housing, homeless in shelters or in places not meant for human habitation and currently-under Project Longevity supervision.

4. Key Principles of Program Operation

- a. Housing focus. Housing Instability is first and foremost a housing problem and should be treated as such. Housing focus understands the program participant's immediate barriers to obtaining and keeping housing and then finds ways to eliminate or compensate for those barriers. Non-housing related barriers are addressed if and when the program participant chooses.
- b. Coordination with Core PL Staff and Case Management Entity Staff. Housing coordination staff will be in close communication with Core Project Longevity staff and case management staff, in order ensure adequate service provision and reduce duplication of effort.
- c. Housing first. Housing First is a programmatic and systems approach that centers on providing housing unstable people with housing quickly and then providing services as needed using a low barrier approach that emphasizes community integration, stable tenancy, recovery and individual choice.
- d. Choice and respect. Program participants are empowered to make their own choices about housing and services and to respond to the consequences of those choices.

- e. Just enough assistance. The minimum assistance (financial and/or housing supports) necessary is provided for the shortest period of time possible. Strengths and barriers are identified at the outset of services. Supports are provided to accentuate strengths and eliminate those barriers in order to improve the program participant's ability to sustain housing.

“Housing First is a programmatic and systems approach that centers on providing homeless or those at risk of homelessness with housing quickly and then providing services as needed using a low barrier approach that emphasizes community integration, stable tenancy, recovery and individual choice.

Low barrier approach to entry:

Housing First offers individuals and families experiencing homelessness immediate access to permanent housing without unnecessary prerequisites. For example:

1. Admission/tenant screening and selection practices do not require abstinence from substances, completion of or compliance with treatment, or participation in services.
2. Applicants are not rejected on the basis of poor or lack of credit or income, poor or lack of rental history, minor criminal convictions, or other factors that might indicate a lack of “housing readiness.”
3. Generally, only those admission criteria that are required by funders are applied, though programs may also consider additional criteria on a case by case basis as necessary to ensure the safety of tenants and staff. Application of such additional criteria should be rare, and may include, for example, denial of an applicant who is a high risk registered sex offender by a project serving children, or denial of an applicant who has a history of domestic violence involving a current participant.

Lease compliance and housing retention

Tenants are expected to comply with a standard lease agreement and are provided with services and supports to help maintain housing and prevent eviction.

1. Leases do not include stipulations beyond those that are customary, legal, and enforceable under Connecticut law.
2. No program rules beyond those that are customary, legal, and enforceable through a lease are applied (e.g., visitor policies should be equivalent to those in other types of permanent, lease-based housing in the community).
3. Services are designed to identify and reduce risks to stable tenancy and to overall health and well-being.”

g. Linkages/Program Collaboration/Coordination. Describe in detail the collaborative efforts that are currently in place between the respondent and proposed community partners and subcontractors, and the existing housing resources within Bridgeport, New Haven, Waterbury, New London, or Hartford areas specified in the respondent’s proposal. Identify leveraged services that will support CT Project Longevity Housing Program operations and describe any coordinated services between the respondent, proposed community partners and subcontractors, and other service providers that will be beneficial to the target population.

g. Quality Assurance Protocols. Describe the respondent’s and each proposed community partner’s and subcontractors’ internal process to ensure the quality and appropriateness of the activities to be performed. If an external quality assurance process is used, describe the process.
